Author Talk with Eric Lehman
"Connecticut Town Greens: History of the State's Common Centers"

On Monday, November 19, 6:30p.m., Derby Public Library's Meeting Room. Author Eric D. Lehman will lead a lively lecture about the remarkable story of "Connecticut Town Greens: History of the State's Common Centers". Town Greens are thought of as relics of another time, but as residents of Connecticut they are part of our lives. In fact, over 170 public spaces remain on which we can walk where our ancestors and predecessors walked. Mr. Lehman will also be selling and signing copies of his book as well as his other books. Space is limited so registration is required beginning October 22 online or by calling the Reference Desk at 203-736-1482.

Read to Ollie

Children ages 5-11 are welcome to be part of the popular B.A.R.K. (Be A Reading Kid) program here at the library. This is a great opportunity for beginner or reluctant readers - as well as experienced readers - to build confidence, enhance literary skills achieved during the school year, and develop a love of reading.

Children will be given a 20 minute time slot to read and may select a book from Ollie's Book Picks to share with him for the program. Registration is required.

The Derby Public Library will donate all fines, copy fees, and fax fees collected from November 27 through December 12 to TEAM's Toys 4 Kids Annual Toy Drive.

Bob Hennessy & the World of Harmonica Holiday Concert

On Monday, December 10, 6:30 p.m., Meeting Room. The harmonica is a worldwide instrument voicing the music of hundreds of cultures. And one simple reason could be its SIZE. What has intrigued many in the music community is its ability, when played by masters, to encompass all genres of musical style, from Classical to Jazz to Near Eastern to Irish to Blues to Country, etc. Using storytelling, historical facts and playing the instrument in many styles, Bob Hennessy tells the story of "The World of Harmonica". Seating is limited, so registration is required starting November 9, online or at the Reference Desk at 203-736-1482.
